BUDAPEST AND SURROUNDINGS

Think HUNGARY
more than expected

A travel-in-time - not only for Sisi-fans

Besides the historical traditions and the faithfully refurnished rooms which satisfy the most scrupulous demands of protocol, the programme of colourful cultural events on offer makes the Gödöllő Royal Palace one of the most inviting and exciting institutions and tourist destinations in Hungary today.

BUDAPEST AND SURROUNDINGS

Budapest, one of Europe's most fascinating capital, Hungary's most gorgeous destination, the Danube bend; Gödöllő, home of the baroque splendor and Zsámbék, land of the hidden treasures are all located in one region.

While we are enjoying a chocolate cake with truffle cream on the Vörösmarty square in the downtown of Budapest, the wind coming from the riverside combs our hair, and a minute later we are riding a horse on the way to Domonyvölgy heading into the sunset.

The region's tourism treasures are providing opportunity to discover the tiny details of a metropolis on foot, by rushing on a rickshaw cab or by splashing into the Danube with the „magic bus”, while the next day we are enjoying the peace of the captivating Danube bend, with birds singing around us together with the sound of little forest trains across the astonishing landscape of the Börzöny mountains. Those who arrive to Budapest will receive much more than just one city, because Visegrád, Szentendre, Esztergom, Vác, Gödöllő or Zsámbék is just a few minutes away from the capital of Hungary, where we can roam around Etyek-Buda wine district, the Duna-Ipoly National Park, we can search the Hermit of Vác, or dressed in baroque dresses, we can step into the world of queen Elizabeth. Our region is typically for families, because the children can meet lots of new friends, such as the new inhabitant of the Budapest Zoo, Asha, the baby elephant; Dani, the ant, tour guide of the Danube Bend, Prince Egerváry Elemér, story teller of the Royal Palace in Gödöllő, or himself Gombóc Artúr, guardian of the Mosolyalbum of Vác. Beside children, adults are also welcomed in our region, since Budapest is the show-window of the Hungarian wine selection. The famous bistros of Budapest are offering all types of the top quality Hungarian wines. If someone would like to taste the unique wines of the region, the Etyek-Buda wine region is to place to travel, where a glass of refreshing chardonnay can be shared with new friends and with great memories.
